Low-Doc Finance —Tailored to support the Self-Employed

If you are self-employed or a small business owner and lack the necessary documents for a standard home loan application, you may be familiar with low-doc and alt-doc home loans.

We understand that verifying your income can be a challenge. We provide alternative options for income verification, making it easier for self-employed individuals to access financing.

Low-doc home finance still requires a credit assessment, a serviceability check, and a suitability evaluation. However, low-doc loans allow borrowers to use their Australian Business Number (ABN) activity and business account statements to verify their income rather than relying solely on PAYG and tax returns.
